A Short History of James Pulliam

The beginning of this genealogy was compiled by Mrs. Emma Dora (Mansfield) Lowdermilk, a great granddaughter of John Granderson and Agnes Allen (Pulliam) Seymour. After the death of Mrs. Lowdermilk, Mrs. Grace (Roberts) Davenport added to the records. With the help of various family heads over a period of more than three years, I have collected and arranged the bulk of the data as it appears in this booklet.

Much credit is due Mrs. Guy Martin of Waverly, Illinois, for long hours spent in copying records for me in Morgan County Courthouse, and for her work in cataloguing many old country cemeteries where our kin are buried.

Our earliest Pulliam ancestors came from England to Virginia before the middle of the seventeenth century. James Pulliam of more than a century later, and Elizabeth Allen, also of very earliest English pioneer stock, were married in Virginia on February 28, 1757. They purchased their first tract of land on December 30, 1760 in Lunenburg County, Virginia, where they lived for seventeen years. Shortly before selling their holdings in this county, they bought land in adjoining Macklenburg County, living there until November 2, 1792, at which time they moved across the border into Person County, North Carolina. This newly purchased home was a tract of two hundred ten acres and it was here James died in the summer of 1799. Elizabeth was willed the use of all the property her natural life or widowhood, the estate then to be sold and the proceeds turned over to their large family of fourteen children.

Our first Seymour ancestor in America, John Granderson, was born in England November 11, 1772, and came to Person County, North Carolina, as a young, single man. Since he left no records showing his exact arrival date, we can only surmise it was not many months prior to his marriage to Agnes Allen Pulliam, daughter of the above mentioned James and Elizabeth, on April 1, 1794. John Granderson and Agnes were the parents of eight sons and five daughters, all living to adulthood, marrying and establishing homes of their own. Thus began the large family from which we all originated.

THE NAME AND FAMILY OF SEYMOUR

Compiled by The Media Research Bureau

Washington, D.C.

The name SEYMOUR is generally believed to have been a corruption of the Norman name, St. Maur, although some authorities assert that it was derived from the ancient English baptismal name of Semar. It is found on early English and American records in the various forms of Seamer, Semer, Simmor; St. Maur, Sancto Mauro (Latin form), Semore, Seamore, Seamor, Seimor, Seimore, Semare, Semar, Semere, Seynimaour, Seynmaur, Seymaur, Seymer, Seymar, Seymor, Seymore, Seymour, and others, of which the form last mentioned is that most generally in use in America today.

According to family traditions the Seymours or St. Maurs were living in the eighth century at St. Maur-sur-Loire, in Touraine, France, which place, it is said, had taken its name from a certain monk or hermit living there at an even earlier time. Some authorities hold that the family went into England with William the Conqueror in 1066, in the person of Guy de St. Maur, and that from him all later branches of the family are descended.

However, this may be, in the early thirteenth century one Sir William de St. Maur acquired lands in Monmouthshire, Wales, and the family later added to its estates other lands, in Somersetshire, England. Sir William (whom one authority calls "Sir Richard") was the father of Sir Roger de St. Maur, alias seimor or Seymour, who was the father of Sir Roger, who married Joan Damarel or Damerell and was the father by her of Sir Roger and John Seymour, of whom Sir Roger married Cecilia, daughter of John de Beauchamp, and had issue by her of Sir William, who married Margaret, daughter of Simon de Brockburn, and was the father of Roger, who resided in Wiltshire, England, and had issue by his wife Maud, daughter of Sir William Esturmi or Sturmy, of Sir John, who married Isabel, daughter of Mark Williams, and had issue by her of John, who married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Robert Coker, and died in 1463, leaving issue of two sons, John and Humphrey, of whom the first married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir George Darell, and was the father by her of Sir John, Sir George, Sir Robert, Sir William and others.

Of the last-mentioned brothers, Sir John Seymour of Wiltshire married Margery, daughter of Sir Henry Wentworth, and had issue by her of Sir Edward, Sir Henry, Sir Thomas (Lord Seymour of Dudley, High Admiral of England, and second husband of Katherine, Queen of England and widow of King Henry the Eighth), John, Margery, Anthony, Jane (Queen of England, wife of King Henry the Eighth), Elizabeth, and Dorothy. Sir Edward, eldest son of Sir John and Margery, became Duke of Somerset, Earl of Hertford, Viscount Beauchamp, and Baron Seymour, Lord Protector of England. By his first wife Catherine, daughter of Sir William Filliol, he was the father of Sir Edward and John, of whom the first will be mentioned again later, and by his second wife Anne, daughter of Sir Edward Stanhope, he had further issue of three sons and six daughters.

The last-mentioned Sir Edward, Lord Seymour, resided in Devonshire, England, in the early sixteenth century and was the father there by his wife Mary, daughter of John Walsh, of Sir Edward, who married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Arthur Champernowne, in 1576. He had issue by her of Sir Edward, John, William, Walter, Richard, and numerous daughters. Of these, Sir Edward married Dorothy, daughter of Sir Henry Killigrew, and was the father by her of Sir Edward, Henry, Thomas, Sir Joseph, Robert, John, and several daughters; John appears to have married Elizabeth Glanagan and to have left issue by her, although his records are not complete; William married Joan, daughter of John Young, in 1602 and was the father by her of at least one son, named Richard; and Richard (youngest son of Sir Edward and Elizabeth) is said by some authorities to have died in Devonshire in 1637 and by others is believed to have been that Richard Seymour who emigrated to America in 1639.

Another authority holds the opinion, however, (it is believed, with more probability) that the emigrant Richard was the descendant of one John Semare or Seamer, who was living at Sawbridgeworth, Hertfordshire, England, in the early sixteenth century. This John was the father by his wife, Jone Andrew or Andrew, of, among others, Robert, John, Peter, and William, of whom the first married Elizabeth Waller, in 1603 and was the father by her of Richard, Nathaniel, Zechariah, Elizabeth, and Mary, of whom the first is believed to have been the emigrant of 1639, who will be mentioned again later.

One Humphrey Seymour (probably the before-mentioned younger son of John Seymour and Elizabeth Coker of Wiltshire) made his home in Oxfordshire, England, in the early sixteenth century. He was the father by his wife Elizabeth, daughter of John Winslow, of a son named Symon, who married Cicely, daughter of William Brill, and was the father by her of Alexander, Philip, and Anne, of whom the first married Elizabeth, daughter of Tristram Storke, and had issue by her of John and Symon.

Another line of the family in England was that represented in the latter sixteenth century by Thomas Seymour of Berkshire, who married Jane, daughter of John Wells, and was the father by her of Thomas and Roger, of whom the latter married Anne, daughter of Edmond Hawles, and was the father by her of Thomas Roger, and Edmond, of whom the first was the father by his wife Jane, daughter of John Eyston, of Thomas, Roger, John, Eyston, Edmund, and several daughters.

Notable throughout their history in Great Britain, the Seymours have distinguished themselves in America as well. It is not, however, definitely known in every case from which of the lines of the family in England the early Seymour emigrants to America were descended.

The first of the name to settle in the South were Francis Seamer of Accomack County, Va., in 1637; Owen Seamer of the Isle of Wight County, Va., in 1639; Thomas Seymour of New Norfolk County, Va., in 1641; and John Seemer of Virginia in 1650. The records of these early settlers are not, however, complete, and little is known concerning their immediate families or descendants.

The before-mentioned emigrant Richard Seymour or Seamer settled in Hartford, Conn., in 1639. Before his emigration he married Mercy or Mary Ruscoe (some historians say "Rashleigh") and had issue by her of four sons, Thomas, John, Zachariah, and Richard, and two daughters, Mary (died young) and Mercy.

Thomas, eldest son of Richard, made his home in Norwalk, Conn., where he married Hannah Marvin in 1654 and had at least ten children, Hannah, Abigail, Mary, Sarah, Thomas, Mercy, Matthew, Elizabeth, Rebecca, and John.

John, second son of Richard, married Mary Watson about 1665 and resided at Hartford. There were nine children by this marriage, John, Thomas, Mary, Zachary (died young), Margaret, Richard, Jonathan, Nathaniel, and Zachary or Zachariah.

Zachariah, third son of Richard, settled at Farmington and later at Wethersfield, Conn., and in the latter place married Mary Gritt. He was the father by her of Mary, Elizabeth, Abigail, and Ruth.

Captain Richard Seymour, youngest son of Richard, made his home in Farmington, Conn., and was married about 1674 to Hannah Woodruff. Their children were Hannah, Samuel, Mercy, Ebenezer, and Jonathan.

Although the early colonial Seymour immigrants settled only in Connecticut and Virginia, members of the family may now be found in all parts of the United States. The Seymours have been prominent in diplomacy, statesmanship, and military leadership even since very early times in medieval Europe. The history of the family in England, while a bloody one, is one of the very notable of that country. Strong, dynamic, and sometimes warlike in their tastes and interests, Seymours have been notable as well in the fields of scholarship, education, law, and the church.

Among those of the Seymour family of Connecticut to distinguish themselves in the War of the Revolution were Lieutenant Horace, Lieutenant William, Captain Thomas Young, Captain Moses, Captain Israel, and Captain Uriah. There were also many members of the family in the ranks of the various colonial forces.

Jonathan, John, Thomas, Richard, Edward, Roger, Robert, Henry, Joseph, Zachariah, and William are some of the Christian names most favored by the family for its male progeny.

A few of the many members of the family who have attained distinction in America in more recent times are:

Thomas Hart Seymour (1808-1868), of Connecticut, legislator and diplomat.

Horatio Seymour (1810-1886), of New York, statesman.

Truman Seymour (1824-1891), of Vermont, soldier and officer in the Mexican, Seminole, and Civil Wars.

George Franklin Seymour (1829-1906), of New York and Illinois, Protestant Episcopal bishop.

Thomas Day Seymour (1848-1907), of Ohio, Classical scholar.

Charles Seymour (b. 1885), of Connecticut, educator and historian.

The authentic Seymour coat of arms is described as follows (Burke, General Armory, 1884):

Arms.—"Gules, two wings conjoined in lure or."

Crest.—"Out of a ducal coronet or, a phoenix gold, issuing out of flames proper."

Motto.—"Foy pour devoir."

Dear Mrs. Atwood:

We do not have a record of the marriage of James Pulliam and Elizabeth.

On Nov. 13, 1777, a deed was recorded in our Deed Book 13, p. 57 from James Pulliam of Lunenburg County conveying a tract of land situated in said County to Daniel Clay of Amelia County. On the same page of the same Deed Book is recorded a bond from James Pulliam to Daniel Clay to save his harmless from any claims of Elizabeth, wife of James, as to dower in said land.

The above described tract of land conveyed by James to Clay is the same identical tract conveyed to the said James by deed from Stephen Wade, dated Dec. 30, 1760 and recorded in our Deed Book 6, page 422.

I find no other references in our records to James Pulliam.

"REMEMBER THE DAYS OF OLD"

The above are the words of Moses to the Hebrews just before they entered Canaan. I am using them in calling to mind a family in which my acquaintance began many years ago. In 1829 John Seymour Sr., his wife Agnes, and a family of thirteen children, eight boys and five girls, left Pierson county, North Carolina, for the western world, as it was then called, and after a tedious journey reached their objective point near the present site of the village of Franklin. On their arrival they lived for several weeks in a tent on a spot not far from the cemetery. This was the year before the "deep snow" in 1830-31.

The names of the boys were Pulliam, John, Bird, William, Edward, Richard, and Addison. The names of the girls I do not call to mind. These children all lived to mature age, married, and many of them raised up large families. The first four named boys settled in what is today known as the Providence neighborhood, but was then called the Weatherford prairie; the others became residents of Hart's Prairie south of Franklin, or Hartland, as it is now known. These men all became excellent farmers, none better in the county.

In 1847 I was employed as teacher in their school and continued as such some years. Many of my pupils came from families with whom I became well acquainted. That was 65 years ago and none of those 13 children are living today, but their descendants are numerous and widely scattered over the country. I think nearly 100 of them attended schools of mine at Hartland, Clayton's Point and Franklin.

A few of the pupils in my first school at Hartland are now living. One is George Washington Seymour, of Jacksonville, a grandson of John and Agnes Seymour; also, Jarrett, his brother, may have been a pupil, but I am not certain. Then there are Susan Mansfield, wife of Isaac Mansfield, of Franklin, and William Austin, her brother. Abraham, John, William and Mary Seymour (wife of Solomon Bull), these four being children of William Seymour, one of the original eight boys.

Of the Eli Austin family only two pupils in that early school are alive, Susan Mansfield and William Austin, her brother. Mrs. M. T. Layman is their sister, but not then born. I presume Peter Sturgis, of Franklin, whose mother was one of the five girls, attended that school; and also Melvina Roberts, wife of Alex Wiggs, whose mother was the daughter of Pulliam Seymour, of the original stock, and Brud Seymour, of Franklin, a son of Richard Seymour. These are all the pupils in that first school I taught in Hartland who survive.

I wish to trace up briefly the descendants of this family that came to Morgan county in 1829 up to 1912. I have given the names of the father and mother and their thirteen children, eight boys and five girls. John Seymour as stated was one of the boys. One of his sons is Robert Seymour, still living, who has a daughter Emma, wife of John H. Rawlings, of Jacksonville. John H. Rawlings and wife have a son Bert; Bert Rawlings and wife have a son Russel, the great-great-great-grandchild of John Seymour Sr. and his wife Agnes.

All of these six generations I have known and from Robert Seymour to the present many of them are still living.

Who else can say that he has become acquainted with six generations of one family? If so, let us hear from you. Hart's prairie and my school among them I hope never to forget. There are some others who came from the same part of North Carolina as did the Seymours. Among them were old Mr. Austin and his sons, Eli, John, Alvin and Buck, but some of these at a later period. Also John Chambers, who died some years ago at the age of 106. He was a brother-in-law to the Austins. This part of Morgan county was named Hart's prairie after the families of Charles, Nathan, David, and Anderson Hart. They were early settlers and came from Tennessee. Rev. George Hart, of Franklin, and Rev. Wm. P. Hart, deceased, were sons of Solomon Hart, and all the five brothers were patrons of my school, George and William being among my pupils.

I might mention other matters of which some concern myself personally. It was at a quarterly meeting in this neighborhood in 1854 that I received my license to preach from the Rev. Peter Cartwright, then the presiding elder of the district. The M. E. church had at the time of my residence there a large membership. The preaching service and prayer meeting were generally held at the schoolhouse in which I taught. Before I left a church building was erected.

Prominent among the membership was Rev. William Evans. Though regarded by some as somewhat uncultured, he was a power in and out of the pulpit. He became a member of the Illinois conference. His first wife was one of the original five Seymour girls mentioned in the beginning. Afterwards he married one of the daughters of David Hart. Many years since he passed away in the very prime of life.

Another prominent member was Rev. John Austin, for some years a member of the Illinois conference. He was an interesting speaker and very gifted in prayer and song. He also is among the missing, his labors ended and heaven gained. Then Rev. James Seymour, a son of Edward Seymour, long since passed away.

Among the laity we must be permitted to mention our dearly beloved brother, Eli Austin. He had great natural gifts connected with the spiritual work of the church. In our prayer meetings he was a host in himself and seemed to have a grip on the promises that moved the people. I shall never forget his wonderful prayer at the church after I had spoken on the text "What are these arrayed in white robes? These are they that have come up through great tribulation and washed their robes in the blood of the Lamb". At the close of the service I called on him to pray, and on bended knee he moved all over the house while in his prayer. It seemed that the very windows of heaven were opened, and more than an hour passed before I could dismiss the meeting. His wife was also one of the five original Seymour girls, and Mrs. Layman, wife of Judge M. T. Layman, of Jacksonville, is their daughter, as is also Mrs. I. T. Mansfield, of Franklin.

One more incident and I am done. It was my privilege when living there to hear in a grove near the schoolhouse the most wonderful sermon I ever heard or ever expect to hear. It was delivered by the Rev. Wilson S. McMurry from the text "Say ye to the righteous it shall be well with you, but to the wicked it shall be ill with you," leaving out a few words in the original version. It was on a Sunday night, a fine evening and a large gathering. Just before finishing his discourse the speaker left his stand with lighted lamp in hand, and passed through the openings in the congregation to illustrate the light divine in the dying hour of his people. The congregation could not have appeared more awe-stricken had an angel suddenly appeared in their midst.

When the speaker returned to the stand shoutings came up from the people that no pen can describe. He then took up the death of the wicked and gave the terrors of the law and the darkness of the hour in terms and power that baffle description, closing with the words "Lost! Lost! Lost!" with an emphasis that seemed to ring in my ears for weeks. Wonderful man! At the home of James Manson in Waverly, in July, 1851, Rev. McMurry, his wife and three children all died with the cholera in less than a week. Now he and his family can say "Bright did the morn of eternity dawn, Death now is banished, his sceptre is gone." He was pastor of the Waverly and Franklin circuit in 1848-49. Then Waverly was made a station and he was pastor there at the time of his death.

My stay among these people in all the relations of life was very pleasant, especially not only socially but in my church affiliations. In their prayer and class meetings they were often attended with marvelous power. The house itself seemed to be fulfilled with the presence of the Master as on the Mount of Transfiguration.

Here transpired the birth of our first born, who is still living. 65 years have come and gone since my acquaintance with these people, but its memories still linger. I hope in the "sweet bye and bye" to meet many of them who have long since entered heaven with greetings of the loved ones here on earth.

In closing I wish to say that in this sketch there may be found some errors, in the failure of memory after the passing away of so many years. Again, while I have spoken especially of one family, I meant no disrespect to others. I am in excellent health and though more than 94 years old, am still alive in body and mind, and am proud to "remember the days of old", so good-bye.

SEYMOUR FAMILY HELD REUNION AT PARK

Large Company Gathered for Social Event - Family One of the Largest and Most influential in This Part of Illinois

It has often been said that if a man facing a Franklin audience would raise a stone and say "Look out, Mr. Seymour", more than half the men in the assembly would dodge. This well known Morgan County family held the third annual reunion at Nichols park Saturday.

Away back in the days of that much married man Henry VIII, a man named John Seymour had a beautiful daughter and the King wanted her for a wife, and she was number three. Another wife was Jane Seymour, mother of Prince Edward. From that on down the genealogy is not directly kept but probably the English Seymours were all of the same strain. Sometime in the eighteenth century a young man named John Granderson Seymour came to America. He married in this country and his children were Robert, William, John, Pullam, Richard, Edward, Peter, Betty, Nancy, and Bird.

John and Pullam had families and Richard was a bachelor when, in 1829, they decided to leave for Illinois. They fixed up a big covered wagon to which they hitched four horses and started. Of course the men walked and sometimes the women. They had camping outfits and did the best they could. They had many thrilling experiences by the way but finally arrived all right and pitched their first camp about where the Franklin Cemetery is today.

The brothers, John and Pullam, bought farms in Providence neighborhood, one on one side of the road and one on the other. There they settled and there they accumulated property and families. The children of John's family were Jackson, Agnes, Robert and Mary. Pullams children were Alexander, Sarah and Harriet. Richard Seymour came along and he was a bachelor, brother of John and Pullam. There were later born to John Seymour and wife, Henry, Edward, George, Jarrett, Millie and Agnes.

To Pullam Seymour were born here Susan, Ann, Lavina, and Polly. John's daughters were married as follows: Agnes, John Austin; Mary, John Hutchinson; Millie, John Woodmancy. Pullams daughters married: Lavine, Cullom Criswell; Polly, Davison. Today the families claiming descent from the original Seymour stock number well nigh six hundred, and some say more. At any rate there are a great many.

As so many live in this vicinity and automobiles are so plenty, it has been the decision to have a reunion each year, and this is the third, and while so many were kept away by the

Dear Mrs. Thompson:

You have been so very kind to advise me,
I dare to ask you for one more service. Last year, our project from Gaumnas Bandford Chapter was a book: — "The Descendants of John Granderson

History of James Pulliam". This work was proof read but I find a few mistakes except in anyway.
Since you do a lot of work at Newberry
Library, would you have time to correct a few mistakes in this work?

threatening weather there were three hundred present and all had a fine time. The Journal reporter was treated very politely and assisted to all the information possible.

Naturally on such an occasion dinner is a prime feature and yesterday was no exception. The good ladies certainly prepared a bill of fare fit for the greatest man in the land. All manner of good things graced the tables and there was plenty, well served and fully enjoyed.

After all had eaten plenty there was lots left, and all pronounced the bill of fare superb. A time was then spent socially and a brief program was carried out. Miss Grace Roberts recited in a finished manner Riley's poem "Tales of Early Days", and all sang "Blest Be The Tie That Binds" and "God Be With You Till We Meet Again".

It was decided to hold the next reunion at the same place and at about the same time. Officers were then chosen: James S. Seymour, Franklin, president; Louis Roberts, Franklin, Vice president; Miss Grace A. Roberts, Franklin, secretary.

Notes

But two of the second generation are living. Jarrett Seymour, ninety years old. He is quite well and active but has lost his sight. The other and next in age is Rev. George W., aged 85. He served in Co. H. 101st. Illinois volunteers in the Civil War. Mrs. Mattie Haynes was 91 years and 5 months old when she died.

The youngest Seymour on the ground was John Henry Seymour, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Seymour, and was born March 17, 1922.

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Callon and son of Decatur were present, Mrs. Callon being a Seymour. Mr. Callon is a son of Major Callon and strongly resembles his father.

Several of the Seymour name served in the Revolutionary War.

SEYMOUR FAMILY HOLDS REUNION AT PROVIDENCE CHURCH

The eighth annual reunion of the Seymour family was held Sunday on the grounds of the Providence church, southwest of Franklin. Over 150 relatives and friends of the family enjoyed the bountiful dinner which was served at noon.

In the business meeting of the family, officers for the coming year were chosen and are: President, Gus M. Seymour; vice president, A. Seymour; secretary, Grace A. Davenport; treasurer, Finis Seymour; Mrs. Dora Lowdermilk is the historian.

The program committee named includes Mrs. Sam Seymour, chairman, Mrs. Lila Douglas and Mrs. Peter Roberts.

The second Sunday in August was named as the annual date for the reunion and Nichols park was chosen as the meeting place for next year.

Mrs. Dora Lowdermilk gave a very interesting report of the life and trials of the first Seymour group. The thirteen original Seymours were Robert, Nancy, James Pulliam, Amy, Polly, John, William, Edward, Patsy, Bird, Richardson, Elizabeth and Peter Addison.

Representatives of eight of the thirteen original families were at the reunion. The family of the late John Seymour having the largest group of descendants present, with about forty members there.

The Seymour family has been in Illinois for one hundred years. Three brothers, Robert, Pulliam and Richardson Seymour came to Illinois by Oxteam in 1829.

Richardson bought land and raised his family in Harts Prairie; Robert and Pulliam settled near Providence church where the centenary celebration was held Sunday. There were four marriages and eleven deaths reported. The historian read a part of the record from as far back as 1757 to the present time.

John Brud Seymour

farmer and stock raiser, Sec. 27, P.O. Franklin, second child of Richardson and Mary Ann Seymour. Richardson was among the early residents of this county, a native of North Carolina; he was among the first to seek a home in the West, becoming a cotemporary with the early settlers of Illinois, locating in Morgan Co., where all of his children were born. John, who heads this sketch, was born in 1845; his daily life--the every-day life of the farmer; when old enough he attended to the duties of the farm, attending school during the winter season. At the youthful age of sixteen, when other boys were employed in the school room, possessed of the spirit of '76, he enlisted in 1862 in Co. H., 101st. Ill. Inf. for three years' service, remaining two years and ten months, engaged in battles: Resaca, Dallas, Peachtree Creek, and many other smaller engagements. In June, 1864, he was honorably discharged at Camp Butler, Springfield, Ill. Since the close of the war he has followed the occupation of a farmer. In his twentieth year he married Miss Frances Weatherford, a daughter of James H. and Mary Ann Weatherford, natives of Tennessee and North Carolina. Six children; five living: Barton, born Feb. 17, 1867; Nancy E., born Nov., 1869; Moses, born Oct., 1871; Mary C., born Feb. 22, 1873, and an infant child. Mr. Seymour owns 126 acres of well improved land, and is one of Morgan Co.'s most enterprising citizens; holds office of school director
